

Real Property - One of the number one issues facing families in today's society is securing a home to raise their families. The quality of life is significantly enhanced by moving from renting to owning. As one of our "Core Essentials" we will provide information and assistance for families toward the goal of acquiring real property.

Financial Services - Balancing a checkbook, maintaining a savings account, teaching young people how to save money, organization of finances, saving for college educations and a host of other financial matters are all a part of the focus in this Core Essential.

Education - One of the key Core Elements is education. We are preparing workshops and seminars that focus on the importance of education and provide access to technology based tools that can help.

Health & Wellness - Another key Core Essential is Health & Wellness, where keeping the body and mind in balance is vital to getting the most out of what life has to offer. This is critical if we are to take full advantage of the other Core Essentials.

Technology - This is the Core Essential that ties them all together here at the TRC @ Englewood. The center was built to provide access to the technology that can level the playing field and improve the quality of life. The lecture and workshop series will help demonstrate the potential ways the combination of these "Core Essentials" can make a difference in the lives of the people that take advantage of these resources.
